Computer systems often employ a variety of security techniques, such as firewalls, network segmentation, user authentication and authorization, and other various security solutions to prevent damage to the computer system or other computing devices that operate in conjunction with the computer system. For example, a user may wish to prevent unauthorized access to the contents of the computer system. In another example, a user may wish to prevent a computer system from being infected by a computer virus. Many different security products are currently available to allow users to prevent computer system damage or computer virus infestation. In some situations, network security products can be employed to protect computing devices that are connected to a computer system. These network security products may detect and prevent unauthorized access to data residing on the computer system. A network security product may detect the presence of unauthorized software on a network and block the use of such unauthorized software. An example of a network security product may be a firewall, which is often employed to prevent unauthorized access to network resources, such as a personal computer system, from external sources. Computer security systems may employ signatures that detect and block malicious software, such as computer viruses. Generally, a signature is a program that uniquely identifies a particular piece of malicious software. Signatures are commonly employed in security systems, such as anti-virus programs, that scan for specific viruses. In addition, a signature may be stored in a database to identify a particular virus and to identify software to which it is compatible.Q: Remove non numeric characters from pandas column I am using pandas to process the data, and I have one column which is identified as text. When I am trying to use the pd.to_numeric() method I get the following error: ValueError: could not convert string to float:'s-2016091200000' The error appears to be coming from the non numeric characters's-'. I've tried a lot of different variations of the following: 82157476af
